

PRESS RELEASE, Copenhagen 21 October, 2009

Hotel D'Angleterre elected Denmark's leading hotel 2009 and simultaneously unveils new initiatives in 2010

When the international tourism industry this weekend held the prestigious event, World Travel Awards, Hotel D'Angleterre was awarded Denmark's leading hotel. This accolade, however, does not make "The white lady on Kongens Nytorv" rest on its laurels.

- In a time with so many challenges for the entire industry, it is delightful to receive a World Travel Award. To us it means that the professional people in the business who have spent time judging and voting, thus yet again acknowledge Hotel D'Angleterre and the product, we represent, says Peter Molin, Commercial Director.

- Therefore I also believe that it will please the international travellers, but also our Danish guests, that we in 2010 will unveil many positive changes. Especially our meeting and event section will show Hotel D'Angleterre from its absolute best side, but there will also be a development on the room section, states Peter Molin.

These months, he and the entire team behind Hotel D'Angleterre work hard at the new initiatives at the 5-star hotel.

- There are still many people who do not think of Hotel D'Angleterre when they plan meetings and events. This we would very much like to change. Even though we are a five-star hotel with a 5-star service, we are fully competitive. And we truly have something that no one else has – 250 years of history hidden in the walls and a unique location on Kongens Nytorv with the metro next door.
